“ The ILMP was an inspiring course to participate in. It was useful to discuss approaches to leadership and management at different schools and I left with practical tools that I feel prepared to implement. Thank you for an excellent set-up and thought-provoking content!”

Sofi Centerman, Futuraskolan, Sweden - October 2015

The International Leadership and Management Programs (ILMP) offer professional learning for practitioners, designed to impact on improving student learning in your school.

The ILMP Programs have been based on current, reliable and valid research alongside evidence and collective experience. They have been designed to impact on learning by increasing and improving your knowledge, skills and understandings of school leadership and management.

School leadership should essentially be concerned with the core business of a school – helping students to learn!

What will I achieve from this ILMP course?

Over the years that we have been designing and providing the International Leadership and Management Program (ILMP), the following questions have guided our work:

- What kind of leadership and management is most likely to have the greatest impact on student learning?
- What kind of leadership is needed for an internationally minded school?
- How do leaders develop and challenge other individuals and teams in a school so they become more focused on improving learning?
- What knowledge, skills and understanding for using information and evidence about students' learning are needed to inform leadership and management practices?
- What knowledge, skills and understanding of structures and systems focused on improving learning are needed to inform leadership and management practice?

“ This was one of the most insightful and impressive CPD events I have attended. I can't wait to try and put it into practice.”

Course Outcomes

Individual passions and beliefs

- To be able to consistently question and reflect upon yourself as a leader focused on improving student learning
- To be able to provide strategic, confident and sustained internationally minded leadership for improved student learning
- To increase your knowledge, skills and understanding of how your leadership can improve learning indirectly

Collective passions and beliefs

- To increase your skills in developing and challenging individuals and teams so that they become more focused on improving learning
- To feel increasingly confident in your roles as leader, coach and mentor with your senior and middle leadership colleagues and teams
- To increase your knowledge, skills and understanding of leadership and the change process and innovation

Evidence

- To increase your knowledge, skills and understanding of how to use information and evidence about students' learning to inform your leadership practice and to improve learning

Structures and Systems

- To increase your knowledge, skills and understanding of structures and systems focused on improving learning

Additionally as part of a network of leaders

- To contribute to and gain from a cohort of like-minded leaders from all over the world, sharing common leadership themes about improving learning through diverse contexts
- To be able to contribute to a growing network of internationally minded leaders with growth mindsets who are focused on improving learning

Who should attend this program?

The ILMP Middle Leaders is specifically designed for anyone already in leadership role such as:

- Co-ordinators
- Heads of Department
- Team Leaders
- Subject Leaders
- Phase Leaders

It is important that anyone taking part in this program is already in their middle leadership role

What format does the program follow?

The face-to-face program is combined input from session leaders, personal reflection, group discussions and forward planning. Each session has been designed around the ILMP Key outcomes.

Where and When will the course be held?

Fieldwork Education

Improving Learning

Fieldwork Education was established in 1984 by two Headteachers. Their goal was to offer the best support to schools that they could, support they felt hadn't been available to their own schools and support that was firmly rooted in best practice and research but that was also practical, accessible and jargon free. Improving learning soon became the mission statement of Fieldwork Education and the defining characteristic of all of the early training work we carried out.

Fieldwork Education has grown and changed since those early days, although our passion for improving learning remains as strong as ever. We have long-term relationships with schools, working with them over time to build capacity and improve learning in classrooms and the wider school community.

Fieldwork Education also brings you the International Primary Curriculum, the International Middle Years Curriculum and the Looking for Learning Toolkit.
